Walt's View

I hope many of you made it to the State Fair this year. By the looks of the crowds I saw, it appeared that a good portion of the state decided to take advantage of several days of nice weather.

Rita and I had a great time touring the grounds and the barns, and chatting with many of the people we met along the way.

I'd like to compliment the Department staff for their work on getting the Ag Building ready, providing educational materials for the public, and for their work in protecting the health of the many animals that went through the fairgrounds over the 11 days of the Fair.

Animal Health personnel examined and checked in over 2,600 animals and disinfected the barns numerous times as animals came and went. They also drained and refilled the portable hand-washing stations as many as three times a day, along with performing barn walk-throughs two or three times a day.

The Department's display in the Ag Building received a third place medal. Staff was on hand to answer questions as people passed through the building. The birth of a calf was featured on the Department's Twitter feed, and it caused quite a stir in the "Twitterverse," even appearing in the Charleston Daily Mail.

It was also my honor to recognize some of West Virginia's great farmers. On Governor's Day, Gov. Tomblin and I took part in the 8th annual Farming Heritage Award luncheon. This year's award went to veterinarian Dr. Joseph Cain. He is the fourth generation to operate the family's 500-acre farm in Big Bend, Calhoun County.

The Farming Heritage Award is

Highlights from the State Fair of West Virginia

sponsored by West Virginia Farm Bureau and the State Fair of West Virginia and is presented to a worthy family who demonstrates a commitment to a rural lifestyle and involvement in their community, and serves as a role model to others in the state.

I'm sure they made a great selection. When Farm Bureau President Charles Wilfong joked that he once heard Dr. Cain say that he'd "rather wear out than rust out," that's all I needed to know. My sincere congratulations to Dr. Cain and his family.

Earlier in the week, the Department inducted four ladies into its Women in Agriculture program. This year's honorees were Carol Webb of Burlington, Arlene Rexrode of Arbovale, Karen Knight of Glen Easton and Shelby Hulver of Baker.

I told the crowd that these women have contributed more to agriculture in this state than just the work they have performed in their respective lifetimes. They have also inspired another generation of farmers who will carry on the work of feeding this state and building its economy through a stable and sustainable agriculture industry.

Many more students throughout the Mountain State are showing an interest in agricultural education, thanks to public support for local agriculture.

The Randolph County Board of Education recently voted to keep the Harman school's vocational agricultural program alive for the coming school year. This is a situation that I've been following closely. Through staff members, I've been strongly encouraging that the program be kept alive. Del. Denise Campbell has also been fighting to keep an agriculture instructor in that school.

Dr. Joseph Cain receives Farming Heritage Award at State Fair

Dr. Joseph Cain received the eighth annual Farming Heritage Award from the West Virginia Farm Bureau and the State Fair of West Virginia August 15.

"It's quite an honor for me and the community. If they can get positive recognition [for farming], I think it's a step in the right direction," said Dr. Cain, who added that farmers are not the type to look for handouts. "The farm organizations and politicians need to work for farm progress, not gifts."

Dr. Cain is the fourth generation to operate the 500-acre family farm in Big Bend, Calhoun County. The Farming Heritage Award is presented to a family that demonstrates a commitment to a rural lifestyle, that is involved in their community, and that serves as a role model to others in West Virginia.

"This is an excellent award program honoring the best in West Virginia agriculture," said Commissioner of Agriculture Walt Helmick. "I was pleased to be a part of the ceremony and we all had a wonderful afternoon."

For more information on the Farming Heritage Awards, contact Kelly Tuckwiller at 304-645-1090, or Joan Harman at 304-472-2080, ext. 306.

WVDA MISSION STATEMENT . . . The mission of the West Virginia Department of Agriculture is to protect plant, animal and human health and the state's food supply through a variety of scientific and regulatory programs; to provide vision, strategic planning and emergency response for agricultural and other civil emergencies; to promote industrial safety and protect consumers through educational and regulatory programs; and to foster economic growth by promoting West Virginia agriculture and agribusinesses throughout the state and abroad.

Walt's View...

At a special meeting, she told the board that she usually gets calls on both sides of any issue, but in this case, every call she received was in favor of keeping the agriculture program alive at Harman.

She also noted that neighboring Tucker County High School has grown its agriculture program from nine to 60 students in the past year. The growth in Tucker County mirrors what I've been seeing during my travels through the state. Agriculture is alive and moving forward in the Mountain State because of great farmers and great educators who are demonstrating to our young people that agriculture is a viable profession and a great way of life.

Agriculture is also an important part of West Virginia's economy. The leading sector is the commercial poultry industry, which generates 53 percent of our state's agriculture revenue. I was in Moorefield in early August for the annual Poultry Festival and Convention. It's a great event, and I'm continually impressed with the efficiency of that industry and sheer volume of birds produced in Hardy and surrounding counties.

The 2012 West Virginia Conservation Farm of the Year tractor presentation was recently made to brothers Greg and Bruce Butler Jr., and their families, owners and operators of B&G Orchards in Martinsburg.

Steve Cronin of Middletown Tractor Sales in Fairmont presented the Butlers with a new John Deere that they will have the use of for 200 hours. They are the fifth generation on the farm that has been in their family for more than 100 years. They currently raise cattle and 75 different varieties of fruits and vegetables. I was pleased to be on hand for the event, and want to congratulate the Butlers for both their successful business – and their outstanding conservation efforts.

Congratulations also to Peach Queen Sarah Sine and Peach King Zane Sine, whom I crowned during the first annual Peach Festival in Romney. Peaches are one of the farm products we're known for here in West Virginia, and I hope this event thrives in the future. I am very proud to have participated in this inaugural event.

Finally, A. Goff & Sons Polled Herefords in Harrisville is marking its 103rd year in operation and its 60th Production Sale will be held on October 19. Six guest consignors are expected to attend. This is the oldest Polled Hereford Farm east of the Mississippi, and possibly the United States, so if you're in the market, this would be a great opportunity to take part in a historic sale.

WHAT'S COOKIN'

September 2013

✂ Recipes ✂

Apple Nut Muffins

- 1/4 cup butter, softened
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 large egg
- 1/2 cup sour cream
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 cup finely chopped apple
- 1 cup all-purpose flour
- 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/4 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/4 teaspoon salt

Topping

- 1/4 cup packed light brown sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 tablespoon melted butter
- 1/4 cup chopped nuts

Preheat oven to 375°F. Line muffin tins with paper or foil muffin cups. Cream butter and sugar in medium bowl. Beat in egg and sour cream with a spoon. Stir in vanilla and apple.

Sift flour, baking powder, soda and salt into large bowl. Add apple mixture and stir until dry ingredients are barely moistened. Spoon into muffin cups, filling two-thirds full.

Combine topping ingredients. Sprinkle on top of batter in cups. Bake 20-25 minutes, or until muffins are slightly brown and springy to the touch. Immediately remove muffins from the pan and cool on rack.

These muffins have better flavor if served at room temperature. Depending on the size of the muffin pan, this recipe will yield 9-12 muffins.

Enjoying the Early Fall Harvest

by Susan Maslowski, Guest Columnist

Summer is coming to a close, but that doesn't mean the end to eating fresh local foods. September is a great month to enjoy end-of-summer crops and the beginning of the first fall harvests. Produce, meats, cultivated mushrooms, eggs and honey are still available at West Virginia farmers' markets.

Nothing heralds the arrival of fall like apples, and the sweetness of an apple muffin will compliment any of these soup recipes that are sure to ward off September's early chills. Respect what nature has to offer at this time of year, and appreciate the variety of the harvest.

✂ Recipes ✂

Mexican Corn Soup

- | | |
|-----------------------------|---------------------------------|
| 3/4 pound chicken (boned) | 1/4 teaspoon coriander |
| 2 cloves garlic | 1/4 teaspoon cumin |
| 1 small onion, chopped | 1/2 teaspoon salt |
| 2 tablespoons butter | 1/2 teaspoon pepper |
| 1 cup chicken stock | 1 jalapeno pepper, chopped fine |
| 1 pint fresh or frozen corn | 1 cup milk |
| 1 tablespoon oregano | 8 ounces Monterey Jack cheese |
| | 1 fresh tomato, cubed |

Sauté chicken, garlic and onion in butter until chicken is cooked. Set aside.

In another pot, combine chicken stock and corn; simmer for 30 minutes. Process corn mixture in blender and return to pot. Add chicken, spices, jalapeno pepper, milk and cheese. Simmer for 15 minutes.

Place a spoonful of tomatoes in bottom of soup bowl. Ladle hot soup on top. Garnish with more cheese, if desired.

This soup tastes even better if it is reheated and served the next day.

✂ Recipes ✂

Sausage, Potato & Kale Soup

- | | |
|---|---|
| 2 cups potatoes, sliced thin | 2 cups beef broth |
| 1/4 cup sliced carrots | 2 cups Half-and-Half |
| 1 tablespoon olive oil | 1/2 teaspoon red pepper flakes |
| 1 medium onion, chopped | 2 cups kale, torn into bite-size pieces |
| 1/2 pound Polish sausage, cut into bite-size pieces | Black pepper, to taste |

In small saucepan, boil potatoes and carrots in salted water until tender. Drain and set aside.

In large soup pot, sauté onion and sausage in olive oil until onions are translucent. Stir in potatoes and carrots. Add broth. Simmer until heated through. Stir in Half-and-Half and red pepper flakes. (Note: If soup is too thick, more Half-and-Half or milk may be added to desired consistency.) Heat, but do not boil. Add kale; simmer about 10 minutes or until kale loses its crispness. Season with black pepper. Ladle into bowls and serve.

✂ Recipes ✂

Fresh Mushroom Soup

- | | |
|--|--|
| 2 cups fresh mushrooms, cleaned and chopped (I used Shiitake and oyster mushrooms) | 1 tablespoon chopped fresh thyme or 1 teaspoon dried |
| 1 tablespoon olive oil | 1 bay leaf |
| 1 tablespoon butter | 1/4 teaspoon Maggi seasoning |
| 2 cloves garlic, minced | 1 tablespoon flour blended into 1 cup Half-and-Half |
| 1 cup chicken broth | Salt and pepper to taste |
| | Thyme sprigs for garnish, optional |

Heat olive oil and butter in large saucepan. Sauté garlic on medium heat. Add mushrooms; cook for about 5 minutes until moisture from mushrooms disappears. Add chicken broth, thyme, bay leaf and Maggi seasoning. Simmer for about 10 minutes. Add flour/ Half-and-Half mixture and cook until mixture thickens. Season with salt and pepper. Serve garnished with thyme sprigs, if desired.

Department of Agriculture Including More Counties in Public-Private Pest Program

One of West Virginia's most worrisome forest pests will have fewer places to hide in 2014.

The West Virginia Department of Agriculture (WVDA) has announced it will greatly expand the Hemlock Woolly Adelgid (HWA) Cooperative Pilot Project, started in 2011 to provide private landowners with an affordable option to save hemlock trees from HWA, a non-native insect that feeds on Hemlock trees.

The project originally covered only the area around the New and Gauley Rivers. The 2013-2014 HWA Program will expand to the 46 West Virginia counties HWA is known to occur: Barbour, Berkeley, Boone, Braxton, Cabell, Clay, Fayette, Grant, Greenbrier, Hampshire, Hardy, Harrison, Jackson, Jefferson, Kanawha, Lewis, Lincoln, Logan, Marion, Mason, Mercer, Mineral, Mingo, Monongalia, Monroe, Morgan, McDowell, Nicholas, Pendleton, Pocahontas, Preston, Putnam, Raleigh, Randolph, Ritchie, Roane, Summers, Taylor, Tucker, Tyler, Upshur, Wayne, Webster, Wirt, Wood and Wyoming counties.

West Virginia Commissioner of Agriculture Walt Helmick said the program is the only one of its type in the country.

"HWA treatment has been done in parks and on other public property, but this is the first one that is working to limit this pest on private property," said Commissioner Helmick. "We found there was interest in areas that were not included in the program last year, so we decided to expand the program."

HWA is an insect that appears as white, woolly masses on the underside of hemlock needles and eventually kills the tree, according to Tim Tomon, Forest Entomologist with WVDA's Plant Industries Division.

"Hemlock trees are an important component of West Virginia ecosystems besides their value as lumber, but even more so for their unmatched aesthetic appeal," said Tomon. "They also create habitat for songbirds and other wildlife, including shade that keeps water at trout-friendly temperatures."

Interested landowners have until September 30 to apply for the program. All work will be performed by employees of the WVDA.

Treatments should protect trees for about four years. Landowners accepted for the program must pay either $1.50 per inch of diameter at breast height (DBH) to $2 per DBH inch depending on treatment type. The type of treatment depends upon distance of the tree to open water.

Landowners must complete an application and submit it with a map of their property, along with a $100 deposit that will be applied to treatment costs. WVDA will evaluate landowner sites to ensure they meet the following project qualifications:

- Only private lands within the project area are eligible.
- More than 50 percent canopy cover of hemlocks.
- A woodlot with a minimum of five acres. Adjacent and otherwise eligible landowners may cooperate to meet the minimum acreage requirement.
- Landowners with less than five acres may qualify if the proposed treatment area is adjacent to land being managed for HWA.
- Trees must have more than 50 percent foliage.
- Trees may not have been treated within the last four years.
- Treatment must not pose a safety risk to WVDA field personnel.
- Pesticides used in treatments must be purchased directly by WVDA.

Greenbrier Valley

Grown The Greenbrier Valley Local Foods Initiative (GVLFI), which serves Pocahontas, Monroe and

Greenbrier counties, has recently launched a new local foods branding program – Greenbrier Valley Grown. The Greenbrier Valley Grown logo certifies that "local" foods are truly locally produced within the Greenbrier Valley. The GVLFI, which is an Initiative of the Greenbrier Valley Economic Development Corporation, views local agriculture as a valuable economic sector and seeks to promote local foods, sustainable farming, and profitable agricultural ventures through appropriate planning, infrastructure, and development.

Greenbrier Valley Grown offers certification standards for food producers, value-added product producers, farmers' markets, retail outlets, and businesses that serve freshly prepared foods, such as restaurants.

For further information about Greenbrier Valley Grown, please visit the GVLFI website at www.greenbriervalley.org or call 304-497-4300.

4-H Happenings

Dr. Jean M. Woloshuk, WVU Extension Specialist, 4-H Youth Agriculture

Fall is just around the corner and so is reorganization for the 4-H program. October 7-11, is National 4-H Week and all West Virginia counties will be celebrating the 4-H youth and adult volunteer leaders who have made an impact on the community and who are stepping up to the challenges of a complex and changing world.

Also during National 4-H Week, youth from all around the state and nation will complete a single, innovative experiment on 4-H National Youth Science Day, which will be held October 9, 2013. This event, which takes place in urban, suburban and rural communities across the country seeks to spark an early youth interest and leadership in science, technology, engineering and math (STEM) careers in an effort to keep America competitive in those fields. This year, the National Science Experiment will be – 4-H Maps & Apps! Designed by Colorado State University Extension, this year's set of activities will turn young people into geospatial thinkers as they design and map their ideal park, use GIS mapping to solve community problems and contribute data about their community to the United States Geological Survey. Currently, more than five million young people across the nation participate in 4-H STEM programming in topics as varied as robotics, agricultural science, rocketry, wind power, environmental science and alternative energy.

4-H members from throughout the state participated in the 2013 State 4-H Dog Skillathon held in conjunction with State 4-H Days, July 26 in Morgantown. The event was underwritten by the West Virginia Veterinary Medical Association. 4-H'ers from Monongalia, Ohio, Preston, Wayne and Wood counties participated in the Junior Division of the Skillathon.

The 1st Place Junior Individual in the skillathon was Abby Rose Sisler, Preston County; 2nd Place Junior Individual, Ashlee

C. Smith, Wayne County; and 3rd Place Junior Individual was Emilee V. Ellison from Wood County. The skillathon consisted of 5 sections: Parts of the Dog, Breeds of Dogs, Conformation of Tails, Grooming Equipment, and Conformation of Front and Rear Legs.

State 4-H Horse, Livestock and Poultry Judging Teams are practicing and preparing to represent West Virginia at their respective national 4-H competitions. The Preston County State 4-H Horse Judging Senior Team will be traveling to Louisville, Ky., on November 8-10 to compete in the

2013 State 4-H Dog Skillathon – Abby Rose Sisler, 1st Place Jr. Individual, Preston County

Eastern National 4-H Horse Roundup. Team members are Stephanie Cummings, Morgan Hamilton, Brianna Grimes and Britiney Storms and their coach, Debby Grimes.

The winning State 4-H Livestock Judging senior team from Hampshire County consisting of team members Paige Bohrer, Jackson Cookman, Sarah Thorne, and Samuel Cookman will be competing November 17-20 at the National 4-H Livestock Judging Contest in Louisville, KY. The team will also be competing in the National 4-H Livestock Skillathon Competition. The coach of the team is Mark

Cooney. In the Senior Division of the State 4-H contest there were 49 participants and 12 teams representing the following counties: Berkeley, Braxton, Grant, Greenbrier, Hampshire, Hardy, Jefferson, Lewis, Mason, Mineral, Monroe and Wetzel. The 2nd Place Senior team coached by Jack Tuckwiller and Zack Bartenslager was from Greenbrier with team members: Levi Snedegar, Thomas Willis, Justin Viers, and Andrew Vance. The 3rd Place Senior Team coached by Bruce Loyd was from Lewis County with team members: Joe Bob Mullooly, Jaret Mullooly and Devon Southall.

In the Junior Division of the State 4-H Livestock Judging Contest, 69 4-H'ers from Berkeley, Braxton, Grant, Greenbrier, Hampshire, Hardy, Jefferson, Lewis, Mason, Mineral, Monroe, Roane, Tyler, and Wetzel comprised the 16 teams. The 1st Place team was from Berkeley County and coached by Mark Hostutler with team members: Cameron Lefevre, Ally Walker, William Bayer and Mallorie Rudy. The 2nd Place Junior team was from Jefferson County and was also coached by Mark Hostutler with team members: Mckayla Dodson, Emily Hott, Molly Ott and Shelby Silveous. The 3rd Place Junior Team coached by Mark Cooney was from Hampshire County with team members: Makayla Kidner, Madison Bohrer, Trevor Shaffer and Kirsten Hielt.
